Head on crash kills five on Hwy. 603

By RICH ADAMS

A violent, grinding head-on collision killed five young Bay St. Louis men on Hwy. 603 north of Bayou LaCrosse Thursday night.

Police officials called the 9 p.m. accident involving a car and pickup truck "one of the worst wrecks ever seen in Hancock County."

Dead are Louis D. Haynes Jr., 21, 522 Sycamore St., driver of the car; Edward A. Lizana, 22, 451 Webster St.; and Morris J. Maurice, 21, 714 St.

Francis St., both passengers in the car. Suffering fatal injuries in the pickup truck were Carl O'Neal Talluta, 25, Route 4, Box 60, driver, and Emery Joseph Farve Jr., 28, 534 Main St., a passenger.

Four of the young men were pronounced dead at the scene by Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet. Farve died later at Hancock General Hospital.

Talluta and Farve were stepbrothers. State Highway Patrolman Ray A.

Silkwood, investigating officer, called the accident "the worst I've seen in 11 years."

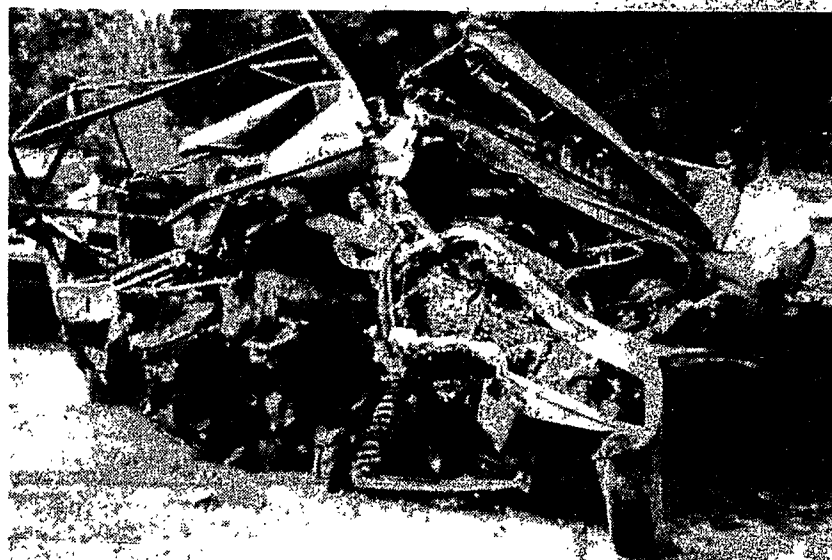

Silkwood believes one or both cars were in the improper lane of the two-lane Hwy. 603 when the accident occurred.

"I can't figure why both cars were out of their lanes of traffic," he said. "Judging from skid marks at the scene of the accident, I have to estimate both cars were out of their lanes. I just can't figure it unless they were passing other cars," he speculated.

"Seven people were killed in a wreck in Pearl River in 1966, and this has to be the worst since," Silkwood said.

"This is the most people I've seen killed in one place in the five years I've been in Hancock County as a highway patrolman," said Highway Patrolman

On Pearl River study

Compretta, Smith efforts praised

The Board of Directors of the Pearl River Basin Development District at a regular quarterly Board Meeting passed a resolution commending and expressing appreciation to the State Legislators who have worked with them on the funding of the East Pearl River Diversion Study on the Lower Pearl River.

Senator Martin Smith of Poplarville and Representatives Lonnie Smith of Poycune, Wade Smith of Poplarville and J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis and the 1978 Session of the Mississippi Legislature were sent resolutions of appreciation for their work in appropriating funds for the further study of the East Pearl River Diversion on the Pearl River.

The resolution reads as follows: Whereas, Pearl River Basin Development District (the "District") is a body corporate and political and an agency of the State of Mississippi engaged in the development and promotion of multi-use recreational facilities, control and abatement of water pollution, development of flood control measures, and water supply and navigation projects throughout the Pearl River Basin; and

WHEREAS, the District is particularly interested in the long-range water supply needs of the lower Pearl River Basin and the neighboring Gulf Coast; and

WHEREAS, certain diversions of the East Pearl River result at times in little or no flow in the East Pearl River, the center line of which is the legal boundary between the State of Mississippi and the State of Louisiana; and

WHEREAS, the District is especially concerned about the loss of flow in and around the Walkiah Bluff Water Park; and

WHEREAS, certain diversions of the East Pearl River substantially inhibit full utilization of the Pearl River in meeting the long-range water supply needs of the lower Pearl River Basin and the neighboring Gulf Coast; and

WHEREAS, the District has previously expressed its interest in the navigation potential of the East Pearl River and in eliminating those diversions which preclude full development of the navigation potential of the East Pearl River, yet said diversions remain; and

WHEREAS, said diversions of the East Pearl River, in particular the diversions created at Holmes Bayou, Moore's Bayou, and Wilson Slough, and the resulting loss of navigation of the East Pearl River preclude full utilization of the Pearl River in Hancock County and Pearl River County, Mississippi, and impair the role to be played by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission in promoting and developing full utilization of the Pearl River;

Ranking NASA scientist lauds Venus space probe

By RICH ADAMS

The Pioneer II Venus space probe, launched from Cape Canaveral, Florida last week, has been lauded by scientists as "one of the most sophisticated scientific experiments ever undertaken by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration."

Duane Kukuk, probe test director for Pioneer II was in Waveland Thursday visiting his sister and her husband, Coral and Bill Gaudet.

"The aim of the Pioneer program is to determine why temperatures on Venus, which range from 400 to 900 degrees Fahrenheit, are so intense," Kukuk said.

"Some scientists stand by a theory labeled the 'greenhouse effect', in which layers of carbon dioxide and sulfuric acid trap heat on the planet instead of radiating it back into space, accounting for the high temperatures," Kukuk said.

"Other scientists go by the idea that Venus has no polar ice caps to have the cooling effect on the planet as Earth does," he added.

Pioneer I, launched in May this year, will arrive in Venus' orbit to record data on December 4.

Pioneer II, taking a more direct route, will arrive five days later to record atmospheric data on a decent to the planet's surface.

Pioneer II, unlike Pioneer I which will only orbit Venus, will break apart into four individual probes.

Each probe, equipped with various data gathering instruments, will relay information to scientists during a 62-minute decent to the planet's surface.

"The greatest problem we encountered was how to seal the windows on the probes to withstand the great pressure when the probe enters Venus' atmosphere," said Kukuk.

"NASA supplied the three smaller probes with sapphires as windows and the larger probe has a window made of one 13-carat diamond," he continued.

"The G-forces are greater when the probes enter Venus' atmosphere than the pressure exerted on the crafts when they hit the planet's surface," Kukuk explained.

Kukuk said the purpose of the probe is to determine whether Earth is destined for the same atmosphere as that of Venus.

"Venus is almost the same distance from the sun as Earth, yet the planets are almost totally unlike each other," he added.

"Earth is 93 million miles from the sun compared to Venus' 67.2 million miles," he said.

DUANE KUKUK

Scientists hope the Venus probe will reveal more about Earth's atmosphere, said Kukuk.

"Some scientists believe pollution will turn Earth's atmosphere similar to that of Venus', while others tend to think pollution will cause another ice age," said Kukuk.

Unlike the Viking probe which made a soft landing on Mars earlier this year, Pioneer II will not attempt to land softly, he said.

"We're not interested in an evaluation of soil, but if Pioneer probes do survive landing on Venus, the equipment will measure any landquakes present," he

Leo Seal says local economy in 'best shape'

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock Bank President Leo Seal Jr. told early risers at the Chamber of Commerce's first "Morning Edition" breakfast meeting Tuesday, "We are in the best shape ever economically - residential construction has put a lot of money in circulation."

The first "Morning Edition" was attended by political, civic and business leaders of Hancock County.

Dick Thomas, chamber president, said, "It makes a person feel real optimistic in seeing so many of you here."

In speaking about the Chamber, Thomas said the group has the highest membership ever. He also reminded the audience about the many services available at the Chamber and welcomed all to stop by and get acquainted with the staff.

Jean Larroux was the Cooffeeaster. Invocation was given by Rev. Charles Clark, Assembly of God Church, Waveland.

"There are a lot of jobs and it's been a good year for real estate - Diamondhead has had over 100 new homes this year," Seal continued.

He recommended a visit by everyone to the Farmers Market every Saturday and Wednesday to get "better appreciation of agriculture people."

The banks also recommended the Farm City tour sponsored each year by the Chamber, Farm Bureau and Cooperative Extension Service.

Seal wasn't as optimistic about oil in Accident medical care is subject of Vo-Tech course

All aspects of emergency medical care required at the scene of an accident will be the subject of a 40-hour course to be offered at the Stennis Field Vo-Tech Center in September.

The course is designed for law enforcement officers, fire fighters, park rangers, safety personnel and voluntary first responders, according to Dr. William Bradford of Waveland.

Dr. Bradford, emergency department physician at Singing River Hospital, Pascagoula, said the course will provide training in all aspects of emergency medical care required by a rescuer who is not an ambulance emergency medical technician.

"This course is designed as a digest of the basic EMT-A course to upgrade emergency medical services in semi-rural areas," Dr. Bradford said.

The textbook to be used is "Emergency Care and Transportation of The Sick and Injured" by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, Bradford noted.

Medical personnel from Hancock County will teach the course which will be limited to 30 students. Classroom and field training are to be included.

For further information, contact the Pearl River Junior College Vo-Tech Center at Stennis before Sept. 10; the doctor said.

FOOD for THOUGHT

An Agricultural Concern Of Interest to Everyone

The greatest part of higher food prices felt in 1977 didn't even involve products grown in this country.

Three-fifths of the increased food costs went for imported foods, such as coffee, cocoa, tea and fish.

If consumers had eaten only home-grown foods, costs would have increased only 2 1/2 percent in 1977. And all of the increase was due to higher marketing costs.

Presented by this publication and Sperry New Holland to promote a better understanding of the modern farm to family food supply system.

Breland, Lopez plan Saturday Ceremonies

The engagement of Miss Cherrie Darlene Breland to Joaquin Gene Lopez, son of Mrs. Marcelina Trevina of Plainsview, Texas, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Breland of Pearlinton.

The couple will be married August 26 at 4 p.m. in First Southern Baptist Church, Pearlinton, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Relatives and friends are invited through this announcement.

Miss Breland is a 1975 graduate of Hancock North Central.

Mr. Lopez is a 1974 graduate of Plainsview High and currently employed in Kenner, La.

The Veterans Administration employs some 39,500 Vietnam era veterans, more than any other federal agency.

Sedberry, Rutherford Engaged

Mrs. Leah Mai Hayes of Grand Bay, Ala., and Mr. William Clifford Sedberry of Columbus, Miss., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Deborah Ann Sedberry of Hattiesburg to Mr. Patrick Murphy Rutherford of Meridian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawley of Waveland.

Miss Sedberry is a graduate of Caldwell High School, Columbus, and University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg. She also attended East Mississippi Junior College. She is currently employed by Pizza Hut, Hattiesburg.

Mr. Rutherford is a graduate of Coast Episcopal

A community grieves

Hancock County's highway tragedy which took the lives of five young adults last week was a shock to all residents.

Our elected officials are aware of the amount of traffic using Highway 603 and made recommendations just last month on four laneing part of it.

True, it will be too late for our five departed young men, but the project proposed by Supervisor Oscar Peterson to four-lane 603 from the Kiln crossroad to US-90 can't be completed fast enough. An all-out effort by anyone who has anything to do with it should be made to complete this much needed Highway improvement in our county.

If Highway 603 would have been four-laned previously as is now proposed, in all probability this tragic accident involving so many would not have happened.

To the families and friends of each young man, we extend our sympathy.

We know not the hour or day the Lord will call each and every one of us.

Part of problem solved

The Kiwanis Club for South Mississippi has received word from the Mississippi State Highway Department that directional turn signals will be installed at the intersection of US-90 and Hwy. 603.

Robert Moseley, assistant traffic control and safety engineer who met with Kiwanis members June 22 to discuss this project and directional turn signals at Waveland Avenue and US-90, said his department made a survey of traffic on weekends as suggested by the Kiwanians.

The Highway Department doesn't at this time recommend the erection of a protected left turn signal at Waveland Avenue and US-90 because of a lack of vehicles making a left turn at this time.

It will be at least three months before Highway crews will start on the light change at US-90 and Hwy. 603 because of work load, according to Moseley.

Another accomplishment will be the installation of a permanent type stop lines at the Waveland Avenue and US-90 light.

The Kiwanis Club should be commended on their efforts in making travel safer for our residents and visitors. The Club brought to the state's attention problems they didn't realize existed.

A worthy cause today

You can do your part today by helping yourself and our Library system at the same time.

John Miller, owner of Shears Delight, will hold a Style-A-Thon today from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be a minimum donation of $5 and $1 extra for blow drying.

If you don't need a hair cut, you may just want to come by and purchase a refreshment or buy a book which will be on sale by Friends of the Library.

Miller and all those who give their time Sunday should be commended for their community involvement.

We have a very fine library system in Hancock County and continued efforts will keep it a fine library.

Important for school admission

Hancock County's Health Department Immunization Clinic has been extended through Aug. 25.

State law requires students in grades one through eight to have at least started the new immunization program before they will be allowed to enter.

Dr. Louis Jobe, Health Officer, said the reason for extending the program is because he feels there are so many children not having started the program.

A copy of the certificate is on this page. Students must get one filled out by the Health Department in order to start school. Dr. Jobe realizes the Health Department has been crowded during the past week, but fears what will happen when school opens and children lack the required shots.

The Board of Health's office is open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week.

Parents, prepare your children for school. If they haven't started this new program, get them to the Hancock County Board of Health office on Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis, as soon as possible.

Hancock County as other economic trends.

"Oil is still a little disappointing this year, after 30 wells last year and all hitting oil, everything north of the river not producing and everything south producing."

The problem north of the river have the experts guessing, according to Seal. "We have some of the same formations as Alabama, Louisiana and Texas and all we get is salt water north of the Jourdan River."

In talking about Industry, Seal painted a brighter picture.

Alcan Aluminum is scheduled to open about January, starting with about 50 people.

A Port and Harbor Industrial tour would be a good one to see the things going on out there," Seal commented. Seal mentioned some facts about the following industries at Port Bienville: Easterly Yachts is building 38-foot sailing sloops and 31-foot Lafite skiffs for shrimpers. Seal added the firm is now building custom-made craft for some foreign countries.

"Easterly has a real fine operation, about 55 people now employed and hoping to have about 100 next year, most from Mississippi," added Seal. Bienville Steel has a "very impressive building, when you pull into Port Bienville and they have 25 or 30 people, about half from Mississippi and the other half from Louisiana, since they moved here from there," according to Seal.

Seal talked about the unique operations at Marine Concrete, with only one other like it in the U.S. "They scoop out an area and drain it, build those big concrete structures for oil exploration and then float them out."

Seal said the biggest problem faced by Marine Concrete is a lack of help. "They need skilled cement finishers, welders and painters. They now employ 150 people, about two-thirds from Mississippi and the other from Louisiana."

Dupont has 1,500 people now working in construction and a recent survey by that company shows 85 percent are native Mississippians, according to Seal.

There will only be about 80 workers brought in from out-of-state and most of them are already here. Dupont's greatest need is getting local people to train.

Seal said the Gulf Coast Research Center has been doing research in the Bay paid for by Dupont, to see just what is there in case anything goes astray.

The Army Munitions Plant at NSTL is moving along, according to Seal, with clearing and grubbing about through and they will be asking for bids in September.

They will employ about 100 by the end of this year and about 900 in 1981. It will be 1983 before completion and the $400 million probably will need more for completion.

With the employment as it is now at NSTL, and completion of the Munitions plant in 1983, NSTL should employ 4,800 people then.

NSTL has 3,065 employees now and it is the "Highest since 1965," according to Seal. Of these 550 live in Hancock and we are getting more of our share than in the 60's.

Inflation has Seal worried. "A repeat of the 1920's when you think of it at night, you can't sleep."

"You can't run water uphill indefinitely. We can't keep going on the same as we are now, something has to be done to stop inflation."

Seal mentioned that what's happening started about WWII, when the country was experiencing a 2% to 3 percent inflation-growth.

"The L.B.J. full scale war and social giveaways," Seal said, "was when everything got out of wack."

"Nobody can live beyond their means indefinitely, we have been doing it since 1933," commented Seal.

"This Country needs a revolution at the ballot boxes on the Federal people," Seal replied in closing on inflation.

There was a question and answer period and when asked about employment in Hancock County, Seal stated that after Dupont construction in Delisle is completed, it will help at Port Bienville.

The First "Morning Edition" ended at 8:15 a.m. as scheduled.

Pioneer I and II cost some $225 million, said Kukuk, as opposed to a $1 billion price tag on the Viking Mars probe.

Kukuk is enroute to California where he will embark on a new project.

"I'll be working on a landast satellite, called a thematic mapper, which will take pictures of Earth in seven different wavelengths, ranging from visible to infrared light," he continued.

"With the composite pictures we'll receive from the mapper, we'll be able to tell if a wheat field in a picture is diseased," Kukuk added.

The satellite will be used to detect ore deposits and can be used for weather pictures, he said.

Kukuk previously worked with NASA on the Apollo moon landing program.

Hershel Ladner who also was at the scene.

Nancy Perniclaro, wrecker service operator, said the engine in the car involved "just blew up, with parts scattered all over the scene."

The engine of the car was torn out and the pick-up was torn in half from the impact of the collision, according to another observer at the scene who said the accident site looked more like there had been a plane crash than an automobile collision.

Silkwood said a police escort was necessary for a wrecker towing the pick-up truck away "because the truck was so demolished it took up two lanes of traffic."

According to police reports, the two men in the pick-up truck are believed to have been on their way home from work at an oil rig in the Kiln area.

The pair was traveling in a truck owned by B&L Services of Chunchula, Ala.

Lizana, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lizana, graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1975 and was a radio dispatcher for the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Lizana's father is Bay St. Louis assistant fire chief.

The dead Lizana youth had been confined to a wheel chair since a motorcycle accident in 1971.

His funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of four brothers stationed overseas with U.S. military forces.

Maurice was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Paul Maurice. His body was taken to Baylous Funeral Home, Picayune.

Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis

Haynes Sr., was a 1976 graduate of Bay Senior High School and was employed as a bricklayer's helper.

Funeral services are scheduled for 10 a.m. today, Sunday, at First Baptist Church of Kiln.

Farve is survived by his wife Patricia, and daughter Mandy Dawn. Talluta is survived by a daughter, Christie of New Orleans.

Parents of the Farve and Talluta are Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Brown of Biloxi.

The stepbrothers' bodies were taken to Edmond Fahey Funeral Home, Bay St. Louis.

Assisting Highway Patrolmen at the scene of the accident Thursday night were Waveland Police Department, Bay St. Louis Police and Fire Departments, Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Gulfport Fire and Rescue Unit, Diamondhead Fire Department, and Mobile Medics.

The Gulfport unit employed its 'Jaws of Life' rescue device to extricate the victims from the wreckage.

Oscar Peterson, Hancock County Beat Three supervisor, proposed four-laneing Hwy. 603 at a July 3rd board of supervisors meeting.

Peterson's proposal was approved by his colleagues on the board and forwarded to the State Highway Department, which has since notified the supervisors the matter will remain under study pending completion of a traffic count study of the artery.

Peterson and State Representative J. P. Compretta Friday said the death toll from Thursday's accident "should bear a lot more weight than a traffic count."

Hancock cattlemen plagued by rustlers

By RICH ADAMS

L. L. Fletcher, Hancock County cattlemen, is offering a $1,000 reward for information concerning cattle rustlers he alleges have been stealing his stock.

Fletcher, who has two farms in the NASA buffer zone on Texas Flat Road about 6 miles off of Hwy. 603, said 60 head of cattle have been stolen from his herds since February. He placed the loss in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Fletcher said he didn't report the thefts earlier because he allegedly had 30 head of cattle stolen in 1973 and an investigation failed to turn up any suspects.

Local youths face

stolen goods charges

Four local men were arrested and charged with possession of stolen property in their Leetown home last week by Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner's Chief Deputy Ron Peterson.

Gregory Spiers, 22, Darren Johnson, 18, Vernon Lee, 20, and his brother David Lane Lee, all of Leetown, were arrested by deputies in possession of household items believed stolen from Baton Rouge and the Leetown area, Peterson reported.

According to the Sheriff department, a new stove and refrigerator, water pump, fan and other household items allegedly stolen from the area were found in the home at the time of arrest.

The Lee brothers and Spiers were also charged with growing and cultivating marijuana.

Deputies found ten marijuana plants growing in the house and more than 500 four-foot marijuana plants growing in a soybean field near the house.

Other investigating officers are Ronnie Cuevas, Farley Neicase, and Paul Bernard, Peterson reported.

An August 16 preliminary hearing is scheduled in Beat Two Justice Court before Judge Horatio Friarson.

Just a note of "Thank You," to the police force who came to my house the night of August 3rd when I was attacked, in my home, by two youths demanding money at gun point.

Patrolman A. Benoit was the first to arrive. I could not phone for help, but I flagged a passing car from my front steps, my phone line had been cut.

Two ladies stopped, one was Mrs. Norma Johnston Richardson, (one of my former pupils).

The other lady went to the Court House and notified my plight. Norma remained with me.

Dave Sellier also came. He remained with me, and got word to my son and family to come get me.

Other officers came to my home and really helped.

They, along with Chief Douglas Williams spent most of the night hunting and locating the guilty parties. May God bless all those who helped me.

WELCOMING SECOND PET
There may come a time when a pet owner decides to get a second pet. If you decide to take the plunge, don't be discouraged by predictions of constant pet battles, or the first pet "forgetting" its toilet training as a result of jealousy.

Despite what some people say, two or more animals can peacefully coexist in the same household, if a little care is taken in bringing them together.

First, remember that young animals get acquainted quicker than older animals. Kittens and puppies are accustomed to having littermates around and will readily accept other young animals as playmates.

Just take care that a large, frisky puppy doesn't overwhelm a small kitten with its size.

The match works best when the new addition is the younger of the two pets. A kitten or puppy will not be as much a threat to the already established pet, since it will not immediately seek the top position in the pecking order.

An older cat may hiss and shy away from a puppy, but will not feel as threatened as by an older dog.

If you have to mix two older pets, do so gradually. True affection may never bloom, but your household should not be an armed camp either.

First, keep the two in separate rooms, so that the scent of the new pet will announce its presence to the older pet. Maintain this situation for two or three days, until the older pet feels secure that "nothing has changed" by the addition of the new animal.

Next, let the two animals see each other, perhaps through a screen or gate. After several glimpses, your pets should tolerate each other, and will be ready to meet in the same room, with you standing by.

When you acquire the second pet, make sure that you pay special attention to the first. One of the primary reasons animals in the same household don't get along is jealousy.

Don't make your old pet feel that he is now a second-class citizen. Continue to take him for his own walks, and pet him the same as before.

It's also a good idea for each pet to have its own food bowl. Not only will you be able to insure that the new pet is eating well, but your old pet will maintain its sense of security. Probably after they have been together for a while, they will eat from each other's bowls, but it's not a good idea this soon.

If possible, let each pet have a private corner for a retreat. Nothing is more aggravating for a mature cat than to have a strange kitten or puppy constantly chasing and biting her tail or feet.

She should have a spot where she can relax un-

'Workfare' pilot program rules told by USDA

U. S. Department of Agriculture has published proposed regulations for 14 pilot projects in which food stamp participants will "work off" their food stamp benefits. The Department is also publishing a Notice of Intent soliciting applications from political subdivisions to conduct the projects in their local areas.

The projects, known as workfare, are mandated by the Food Stamp Act of 1977 and will be administered under the joint authority of USDA and the Department of Labor.

The Food Stamp Act specifies that the projects should be conducted in one urban and one rural area in each of the seven administrative regions of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service. Under the pilot projects, food stamp recipients who are required to register for employment will also be subject to a requirement to work in the workfare project.

disturbed. This will also help maintain your pet's sense of security.

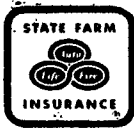

One final step that should not be overlooked is a visit to the veterinarian for your new pet. Even if your first pet is vaccinated against the more serious diseases, it could still pick up a variety of skin infections or intestinal worms from a new animal that has not been cared for properly.

Mayor puts contractor on notice

In a registered letter dated August 10, Mayor Larry J. Bennett issued a five-day notice to Marshall J. Williams of Williams Paving Company, prime contractor on the Main Street project. Bennett stated in the letter that unless Williams Paving Company completed and repaired discrepancies and irregularities still existing on Main Street by Tuesday, August 15, that he would have no alternative but to seek legal action against the contractor in order to protect the taxpayers of the City of Bay St. Louis.

Bennett cited 14 discrepancies listed by Burk & Associates Engineers on the project in a letter dated July 24, together with the fact Williams had failed to recover 13 holes made by a laboratory in taking core samples of the asphalt.

The contractor was also notified that as of August 10, he was 15 days over the contract.

"The people of Bay St. Louis waited long enough to see this project completed and there is absolutely no reason now why they have to accept this project incomplete or substandard as it stands as of this date, the Mayor complained.

By S. Grady Thigpen

It was my great privilege to know well E. J. Stockstill, familiarly known in his later years as Uncle Van. He came close to remembering everything over his long life of 86 years.

At my request he wrote in his own hand writing after he was over 90 years old some of his experiences a few of which follow:

Born in 1892, I can remember as far back as the year 1875. I saw a fist fight between Frank McQueen, Sr. and John Nix at Gainesville. There were six or seven men backing McQueen and about the same amount backing Nix. While McQueen and Nix were clinched, they fell to the ground.

There was pushing and shoving. I heard these words, by an onlooker, "No foul play; stand back hands off." Next I heard Nix say, "Take him off, I've got enough." George Holliman walked to the front porch of his nearby store and called to Jim Roach who was J. P. to fine the men for fighting on the streets. The judge informed McQueen and Nix their fine was one dollar each.

The hat was passed around and the fines paid by friends who had seen to it that the fight was fair. Judge Roach received the two dollars and invited the crowd to Dave Moyes' saloon; there in Gainesville and paid for the drinks for 16 men at ten cents a drink. He kept forty cents for his fee. Dave Moyes was sheriff of Hancock County. His son operated his saloon for him.

Maybe you don't know that the Southern Railroad got the first train into New Orleans in the year 1885 (93 years ago). I remember it well. I was 16 years old then. It was not standard gauge. The trains couldn't go any farther than Meridian on account of not being standard gauge.

There were link and pin couplings and hand brakes on each coach. A small rod engine to pull the train had a steam brake on it. Fourteen box cars was a train including a caboose as the engines were small and had little power.

Gainesville was the only place in this area to buy family supplies until 1884. Nicholson first had some section houses, and a depot next, Picayune was a flag stop at first with no stores.

A man from nowhere by the name of Estappo, put in a small store, the first one at Nicholson. He caught smallpox from a customer coming into his store and died. The sheriff from Bay St.

Louis came and burned the building and the store of goods, to be sure there were no more cases of this dread disease.

There was a flood of Pearl River in the year 1900. It reached the railroad on April 29 and washed out all the trestles in Honey Island Swamp. We had no train to New Orleans for twenty-two days. Many people living in Honey Island lost their homes and all their livestock.

In 1878, a man named Joe Mitchell built a small log house at the same place where the Goodyear tire place now is in Picayune. He homesteaded 160.23 acres of land from the government.

In the year 1881 the first survey was made for the Southern Railroad. Mitchell said if they built it at this survey, he would move. He was asked why. His answer was that the railroads might kill all his children and cows. He kept his word. When he saw them working, clearing right of way, he swapped his claim to his Uncle Pembroke Mitchell for a red heifer yearling and moved to Catiboula Creek and built a gristmill.

This homestead included all the land where the old business section of Picayune was before the railroad was built.

Way back in my boyhood days before the railroad was built, my father carried me to New Orleans with him. We rode horses to Gainesville and left them in a stable. There we took a small steam boat to the English lookout, and from there to New Orleans on an L&N train.

The depot at that time was about two blocks down river from the foot of Canal Street. We walked up Canal Street to the Custom House Building. From there we went to Poydras Street to Poydras Market.

In the west end of this open shed was the Meat Market. On the south side of the building as produce being unloaded from two-wheel carts. Dad said we better eat here. My order was ham and eggs. My meal cost 25 cents. There was no screen. House flies were everywhere.

We walked towards the river on Poydras Street. All along were small stores. They would put most of their stock on the sidewalk. Each one, as I remember it had or carried just one line of goods (maybe shoes).

They looked like sectioned land. The next fellow would have tinware, etc. I was walking behind Dad, boylike, looking to my right, to my left and behindwards. I got into that pile of buckets, pans, and sifters and fell down. The dogs came out barking at me. There were so many people, I was scared.

Well, we went back to the Mississippi River levee. The water - Pa said - was about 18 feet above the city. They had some bags piled high to keep the water back. Night came and we went to find a rooming house. There were no screens on the outside windows; we slept under a mosquito bar.

There were no drainage ditches and the water was covered green. Big rats all along the way would come and seemingly would greet you and then run back and hide.

On my second trip to New Orleans, I went in on the train from Nicholson sometime about 1890. The Southern Depot was way down the river from Canal Street at Press Street.

It was 3 miles down the river from Canal Street. At that time the street cars were pulled by one mule. The car itself was short and had only four wheels, very close together.

About six people was all the car would take. In making the curve on street corners they would often jump the track. There was only one door, at the front end, to get in you had to pass the fellow that drove the mule. He was the conductor also.

I remember riding down from Canal Street to the Southern Depot on Press Street. The car jumped the track on a very stiff curve.

The driver got on the ground and asked everyone to step to the back, please. Then he put his shoulder to the front end and pushed the car back on track. Then he said, "all step forward." Well, we were late and the train for Nicholson was gone when we finally got to the depot.

During the day before, I had bought me an eight dollar suit, a hat, and a pair of three dollar boots. I had spent all my money but fifty cents. The next train out to Nicholson would run the next day at 6 p.m., so I walked back to Fred's rooming house about three and one half miles away and paid Fred my last 50 cents for a room.

Next morning, I gathered up my suit, hat and boots and to be sure to catch the next train to Nicholson, I routed myself along the foot of the river levee which I knew would carry me to the Press Street Depot.

I was down there about eight o'clock a.m. I knew my train would not pull out until six p.m. that evening. About one o'clock, I was hungry and was really hurting, so I decided to sell my new hat.

A negro would have paid me one dollar for the hat but he had only fifty cents. I was at the point something had to be done, so I took his fifty cents.

I knew how Uncle Billie Stockstill saved his life by eating his boot tops. The story which I had heard many times went like this: He was in the army and was at Vicksburg. He said they had fought three days without anything to eat. My father and another brother, Dave Stockstill, were also there with him. So, they decided to make their getaway. He kept himself alive by cutting off a hunk of his boot top and chewing it.

He said that his sweat had soaked the boot tops. It was very salty and made him drink plenty of water. This shows a man can live on boot tops and water. (This was back about 114 years ago).

I can remember what they called a shooting match. A cow has four quarters. Four men would take a cow out to what was called the Inside Road in the early morning and tie it to a tree and they would target shoot there all day. In the late evening, they would butcher the cow and the best marksman would take the best quarter. The second best would take the second pick.

The third and fourth would take theirs by flipping a coin. Game was plentiful. I have seen wild deer feeding over on the next hill and ox drivers driving 4 yokes of oxen. I was riding on the log cart which had wheels eight feet high going back from the river to the woods where the trees were felled.

The deer would look up and feed on. The turkeys didn't seem to be wild but they were. No one lived nearer than fifteen miles and no man had really ever lived near this territory.

My father had a logging operation there, getting his logs for Potitvent and Favre at Pearlington. He had six ox teams, which would haul one hundred logs per day. All these trees were felled by cutting down with a club axe. It took twelve men to cut these trees into the right length logs. My father was compelled to have a camp in order to keep the log cutters and other required labor to run the job. In all there were about 20 people including 2 negro women who did the cooking.

These camps were all built of round poles. There were six white men who drove the teams. Dad and I had separate apartments where we slept. He had a small commissary where the log cutters would go on Saturday to buy groceries to carry them to their homes fifteen miles away. Dad bought me a small mule and a saddle so as to ride in the woods with him.

These camps were located on a clear running creek that emptied into the Little Pearl where all the logs were dumped down the banks and rafted from there to Pearl River and down the Pearl to Pearlington.

In the first year of this logging operation, Dad bought 5 sows and one male and carried to the camp. After feeding some of these at the camp, he let them go in the wood on their own. Pretty soon he had a one man job to look after his hogs.

The woods there had never been over so the ground huckleberry, a fine feed for hogs was almost thick as the grass. The hog business got to be almost as big as the log business.

Dad bought a hog dog from a man who lived about twenty miles east of the log camp near where Purvis is now. The man's name was Buck Simons, so Dad named the dog Buck. After we got Buck to know us well we started out hog hunting.

The sows were gentle, but the small shoats had never been seen anybody and were wild. Buck kept very busy baying. Dad would get close in order to make one of the small shoats dodge out and try to make his getaway. He didn't get far before Buck had him by the ears. I would hold him by the hind feet and Dad would mark him and drag him back to where the sow was.

We worked that way until maybe five or six p.m. One day after leaving a bunch of the hogs, we rode off while Buck went on ahead and was soon out of sight.

It wasn't long until we heard him baying, we thought at first he was baying hogs, but Dad said it couldn't be hogs, or we could hear the rally. We rode on. When we got to where we could find Buck, we saw it was not hogs - It was a rattlesnake about six feet long! There were some little snakes about six inches long on the ground.

The old snake had her mouth open and was making a racket that went like a cricket, and the little fellows were crawling to her and she was swallowing them. Dad shot her from off his horse, and then got off and stomped four or five of the small snakes with his shoe heel. He had seen her swallow some so he stomped her after she was good and dead. Dad and I split her open and killed fifteen of the small ones - sixteen snakes in all.

I want to tell the young folks what was here eighty years ago. Everybody wore clothes made of cloth they made themselves. They first picked the cotton off the cotton seed by hand. They then would card that cotton with hand cards. They were called cotton cards. Then they would spin the cotton into rolls. From there we took it to spinning wheels and from there to the looms.

The spinning wheel lived close by. Other men would make looms. Back in my early days in rural areas, all clothes were made at home. There was a man who made saddles right here less than a mile from where the Bank of Picayune stands today. Another man made chairs. The bottoms or seats of chairs were made of cow hide, not dressed. These chairs would last for a lifetime because they were made of hickory wood.

There was a man named Farr who lived about one mile west of Burnt Bridge. He owned some slaves. A man named Kimball lived where the R. H. Crosby family lives now. Kimball built the first bridge across the Hoblochitto and charged ten cents per man and horse to cross it, fifteen cents per horse and cart. Farr saw Kimball doing a good business and decided to build a bridge. When Farr built his bridge, Kimball had a man named Dillard homestead forty acres of land, thinking he was getting the land where Farr's bridge had been built on the bank of Boley. He missed by 100 feet.

The bridge burned. Kimball said lightning burned the bridge. Farr said Kimball had it burned. That is where and how it got the name Burnt Bridge.

Way back before the Civil War, Hancock County extended 85 or 90 miles from Bay St. Louis to where it joined Marion County. There were no bridges and you might say no roads, only trails.

The Legislature by request of the people in 1890 split Hancock County and the north half was called Pearl River County. The new county line was north of Carriere leaving Picayune area still in Hancock until 1908.

In later years, (I'm not sure about this date) E. F. Tate, Morris Tate, Tom Weaver, and myself went to Jackson and met the state representative and begged for this area to be put in Pearl River County as it would be much more convenient to go to Poplarville than to Bay St. Louis.

Also, there was a committee of five or six men from Poplarville who helped us put the thing over. However, this action of getting into Pearl River County, in my estimation, was not as bad as General Andrew Jackson when he was trying to get his army into New Orleans.

When he got his army about six miles east of Picayune he found out from his scouts that he was heading into twenty miles of lake water.

Let me give some idea of how the country stores looked when I was a boy.

They carried no ready made clothing at all, no canned goods of any kind. What they did carry was flour in two-hundred pound barrels, weighed out to the buyer in any amount he wanted, green coffee in 100 lb. sacks, molasses in fifty gallon barrels, piece dry goods, and very coarse shoes which were called brogans. The soles of these shoes were pegged on with wooden pegs.

All the plows were made at home or by someone who had a small shed to work under. All the coffins were made in the local community as needed. I was twenty-eight years old when I saw the first factory made coffin. When I was a teenage boy, I went to see a man buried. They put 2 poles across the grave and placed the coffin on them. They then would put plow lines under the coffin and four men would let him down into the grave.

When they called for the plow lines, someone had forgotten to bring them. Someone went two miles on a horse to get the plow lines. When he got back, they decided they were too old and might break, so another fellow said he had some new plow lines. He volunteered to go get them. So the dead man had to wait on the poles about two and a half hours before they could let him down in the grave, but he didn't complain.

I've heard said old age is golden. My ninety-one year when this is written goes like this:

How do I know my youth is all spent?

Well, my get up and go has got up and went. But in spite of it all, I am able to grin. When I think of all the places my get up has been.

The reason I know my youth is all spent. My get up and go has got up and went. Since I've retired from life's competition I hurry myself with complete repetition.

I get up each morning and dust off my wits, pick up the paper, and read the Obit. And if my name is not mentioned by Joe and Mary I know I'm not dead; I'm still living.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
RELATIVE TO USE OF GENERAL REVENUE SHARING FUNDS.

Notice is hereby given to the public that the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Waveland, Mississippi will on Tuesday, August 29, 1978 at 7:00 p.m., hold a public hearing in the City Hall at Waveland, Mississippi relative to the use of general revenue sharing funds allocated to the City of Waveland by the federal government under Public Law 92-512 State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 as amended by Public Law 94-488 State and Local Fiscal Assistance Amendment of 1976.

Notice is also hereby given that the Mayor and Board of Aldermen will at said meeting adopt its final budget for the next fiscal year beginning October 1, 1978, which budget shall show the various uses and expenditures of the general revenue sharing funds as well as other revenues to be derived by said Mayor and Board of Aldermen for said coming fiscal year.

All citizens will be afforded an opportunity to ask questions about the overall budget and the relationship of revenue sharing funds to that budget, and shall also have the opportunity to comment on said budget.

Published by order of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen this 13th day of August, 1978.

Barbara A. Rappold
City Clerk
City of Waveland

OBITUARIES

DANISHANY SAUCIER
The funeral for Danishany "Dutch" Saucier was Friday at 2 p.m. from the Riemann Memorial Funeral Home Chapel on US-90, followed by burial in the Wolf River Cemetery.

Mr. Saucier, 74, a retired Harrison County worker and a resident of Rt. 2, Gulfport, died Tuesday August 7, 1978. He was born in Harrison County.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Annie Saucier, and two sons, Joseph Jr. Saucier and Joseph D. Saucier, all of Gulfport; two daughters, Marie Malley and Mrs. Louis Shifou; a sister, Mrs. Christian Ladner, all of Pass Christian; three brothers, Anno Saucier of Gulfport, Alonzo and Alexander Saucier, both of Pass Christian; 16 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

NICHOLAS FUNEL
Nicholas C. Funel, 86, of Rt. 4, Bay St. Louis, died Thursday, August 10, 1978. The body was sent from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis to the Jacob Schoen and Son Funeral Home in New Orleans for funeral services and burial.

DOROTHY VAN GORDER
The funeral for Mrs. Dorothy Miekley Van Gorder was Thursday at Bradford O'Keefe Funeral Home in Biloxi, with burial in Southern Memorial Park.

Mrs. Van Gorder, 74, a resident of Miramar Lodge Nursing Home in Pass Christian, died Tuesday, August 8, 1978. She was born in Davenport, Iowa, and had resided on the Coast for 58 years.

She is survived by a nephew, Robert Howell of Memphis.

Quarter horse show slated at Diamondhead

The Diamondhead Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor the third annual American Quarter Horse Association Show at the Diamondhead Stables Sunday, September 17 at 9 a.m.

A spokesman for the show stated the show draws horses from all over the United States and that profits from the event go to the fire department.

The public is invited to the free show. The Diamondhead Ladies Auxiliary will operate food concessions.

Less than 325 U.S. veterans of the Spanish-American War are still alive, according to Veterans' Administration statistics. Some 392,000 American servicemen took part in that conflict.

Hancock Schools among first with tutorial reading program

The Hancock County School District will be among five Mississippi districts in September to launch a programmed tutorial reading course adapted from a similar program which has been highly successful in Farmington, Utah.

The other districts include Simpson County, Pearl River County, Long Beach Municipal and Hazlehurst Municipal.

Representatives of all five units are already acquainted with the Farmington program and have requested it for their districts.

In training workshop in Gulfport in August, directors of Title I education projects from the five districts, as well as first-grade and second-grade teachers and teacher-aid personnel, learned how to teach the course.

Their instructor was Edwin R. Cammack who designed the course which is geared to low-achievement pupils needing help in learning to read. The course provides one-on-one instruction.

Cammack, who directs the program in Farmington, not only conducted the two-day workshop but spent additional time with school personnel in the area going over the fine points of the concept.

The national diffusion network - an idea exchange for educators - is sponsored nationally by the U. S. Office of Education.

In Mississippi, the coordinating agency is the Mississippi School Boards Association.

The MSBA is made up of men and women who have been elected or appointed to serve on local school boards. They are not professional educators.

"We chose to sponsor the program in Mississippi," says MSBA executive director John L. Hartman of Jackson, "because we want Mississippians to be aware of these top-rated educational programs nationwide."

"A Joint Dissemination Review Panel reviews every program submitted to the U. S. Office of Education for approval, and only about half of these programs win that approval, so we know that the standards are high," he added.

Serving as MSBA's facilitator for the program is Jerome Brock, who is in daily touch with school boards interested in the selected programs and who sets up workshops such as the recent one at Gulfport.

"We have other programs which will be adapted to Mississippi with the start of the next school year," says Brock, "including one from Thomson, Ga.; one from Mobile, Ala.; and another from Sylacauga, Ala."

"The program from Thomson involves the teaching of reading and English and will be used, starting in September, in Lowndes County, Greenville, New Albany, Clarksdale and Forest.

The Sylacauga program, known as "Talents Unlimited" because it seeks to encourage and develop a wide range of skills in children in kindergarten through middle school, will be conducted in the Sacred Heart Elementary School in Pascagoula.

The MSBA will continue to sponsor workshops in which spokesmen for the various selected educational programs will travel to Mississippi to explain, first-hand, how these programs work. Several such workshops already have been held in various parts of the state and have been well attended by Mississippi educators, said Brock.

St. Clare's to enroll new pupils Monday

St. Clare's School will register new students Monday, August 21, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Children must be accompanied by parents and must bring immunization certificates.

Mississippi law requires this year that every child, first through eighth grade, must be vaccinated and present State certificate 121 of vaccination obtained from a physician or local health department before admission to class. Vaccinations required are diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella. Kindergarten children are not required to have certificates.

Certificate 121 is required for all new and returning students or State certificate of exemption 121A obtained from a physician or local health department. Forms can be obtained from a local physician or health department.

The first full day of school will be Monday, August 28.

'Shot' is the word

SHOT DEADLINE NEARS - In spite of unusually heavy patronage at the Hancock County Health Department immunization clinic evidenced by this crowded waiting room, clinic director Dr. Louis Jobe fears not enough county students are taking advantage of the five-day-a-week service being offered through August 25. Students in grades one through eight who have not begun an immunization program will not be allowed in school on opening day, and Dr. Jobe feels the demands on the clinic at that time could be overwhelming. Immunization law provisions emphasized

State Superintendent of Education C. E. Holladay this week reminded district superintendents and principals of strict provisions of the state's new immunization law.

In a memorandum to local officials, Holladay noted: Recent revisions of Mississippi law now provide that "it shall be unlawful for any child to attend any school kindergarten or similar type facility intended for the instruction of children, either public or private, unless they shall first have been vaccinated against those diseases specified by the State Health Officer."

"The Mississippi Department of Education and the State Board of Health have developed procedures to carry out this immunization law.

Therefore, beginning with the opening of classes next fall, schools are being directed to achieve 100 percent compliance.

"During the 1978-79 school year the law will affect children in kindergarten through the eighth grade. (Additional grades will be affected in following years.) Enforcement of this law will require removal of children from classes if they are not adequately immunized.

"Parents must secure a Certificate of Compliance for each child from their private physician or local health department prior to the opening of school next fall. Questions should be referred to the administrative official in charge of the child's school, or the nearest health department."

Pass Schools superintendent urges shot law compliance

LeRoy Lizana, Pass Christian school superintendent, said a state law, passed by the 1978 session of the legislature, makes it unlawful for any child to attend any public or private school, including kindergarten, without having been vaccinated against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, red measles, rubella and polio.

Lizana urges parents in his district to comply early with provisions of the law.

During the 1978-79 school year, the law applies only to children enrolled in grades on through eight. In 1979-80, the law will apply to children in grades one through ten. At the beginning of the fall term of 1980-81, the law will apply to all children in grades through twelve.

Vaccinations may be obtained at the Harrison County Health Department or at the office of a physician. Only certificates of vaccinations issued on forms specified by the Mississippi State Board of Health will be accepted.

Parents whose children have been previously vaccinated at the county health department or at a physician's office must obtain a certificate of vaccination for their children and must present it at enrollment for the 1978-79 school year of before.

Certificates may be turned in at the office of the principal of the school in which a child will be enrolled during the school year Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. August 7-18.

If a child attempts to enroll at a school without having completed the required vaccinations, the local health officials, not school officials, may grant a period of time up to 90 days for completion if, in the opinion of the health officials, the delay will not cause undue risks to the child, the school, or the community.

Lizana said under no circumstances can a child be enrolled without first having had at least one dose of each specified vaccine.

Any child whose certificate of vaccination is not submitted within 90 days from the beginning of the fall term of school must be suspended until he is in compliance unless the health officials attribute the delay to lack of supply of vaccine or to some other factor making compliance impossible.

A certificate of exemption from vaccination for medical reasons may be offered on behalf of a child by a licensed physician and may be accepted by the local health officer when, in his opinion, the exemption will not cause undue risk to the community.

Also, a certificate of religious exemption may be offered on behalf of a child by an officer of a church or a recognized denomination.

The latter certificate should certify that parents or guardians of the child are bona fide members of a recognized denomination, the religious teaching of which requires reliance on prayer or spiritual means of healing.

Lizana said, "We are urging all parents to give immediate attention to this matter. It is a matter of law and the school district is required to comply. For the sake of the child I am urging you to have the certificate prior to registration."

Pass public schools set fall registration

Registration of all students entering the first grade for the first time at DeLisle Elementary or Pass Christian Elementary Schools will be Tuesday, August 15, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Superintendent Leroy Lizana noted parents or guardians must accompany students to the schools for registration. All students being presented for enrollment must have an official certified birth certificate bearing a state file number. State law requires that all students enrolling in first grade must be six (6) years of age on or before November 1, 1978.

In addition to birth certificate, all students must have a health certificate that was issued by the county health department or a physician.

The health certificate will certify that the child is free of communicable diseases. This will affect all students in grades 1-8 for the 1977-78 school term.

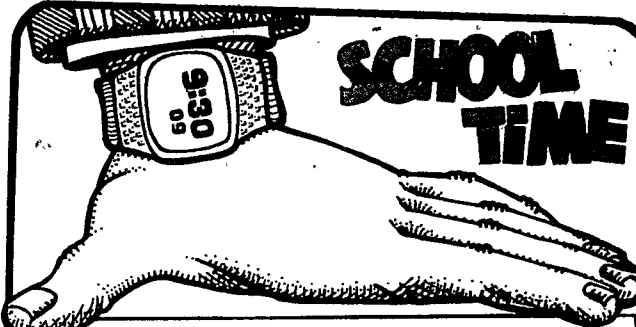

The first day for the 1978-79 school term will be Friday, August 18, which is one day earlier than last year. Lizana indicated that the regular class schedules will be observed on that day.

All district cafeterias will be operating and the school buses will operate to transport all students who live one mile or more from the attendance center where he is enrolled.

Lizana noted that Mississippi Legislature passed a bill during the 1978 session, which states that students now living within municipalities are eligible for transportation. The school district will publish the bus routes in the local paper prior to the opening of school, Lizana said.

New students enrolling in grades 2-4 may report for registration at the DeLisle Elementary or Pass Christian Elementary Schools on any day, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. New students in grades 9-12 should report to Pass Christian High School during the same hours.

Bay Catholic Elementary offers free and reduced price meals

Bay St. Louis Catholic Elementary School this year will implement a policy of free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay full price of meals served under the National School Lunch Program.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown in the chart below are eligible for free or reduced price lunch.

In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for a signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct.

An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has a foster child living with them and wishes to apply for free or reduced price lunch, the family should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, the school principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Rev. Morgan Kavanaugh, OLG Parish - 467-6509 or Rev. Borgia Aubespain, St. Rose Parish - 467-7347 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price lunches or for additional benefits such as free lunch if the family income falls at or below the levels shown in the salary scale.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, or national origin.

Each school and the office of Bay St. Louis Catholic Elementary School has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested person

Bay schools continue Operation Childfind

The Bay St. Louis School District is participating in an ongoing statewide effort to identify, locate, and evaluate children under the age of 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively and/or emotionally handicapped.

Early identification of children in need of special educational experiences is most important to each child.

Furthermore, this information will be used to help determine present and future program needs as progress is made toward the goal of providing a free appropriate public education to all handicapped children.

Information which could identify an individual child will be maintained by this school district and will be provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act.

"As a parent, you are guaranteed the right to inspect any such information about your child and to challenge its accuracy. Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without your informed consent," said Assistant Superintendent Donald Caldwell.

Anyone in need of these services or any questions regarding this procedure should contact the special education supervisor by calling 467-9237 or writing to her at Bay St. Louis High School, Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, 39520.

Ole Miss opens 126th year, record enrollment expected

A record enrollment is expected when The University of Mississippi begins its 126th session this fall.

Dormitories will open Sunday, Aug. 27, for the fall term. New students who were not pre-assigned should register for orientation from 1-5 p.m. Sunday in the Lyceum building. Orientation will begin at 8 a.m. Monday, Aug. 28, when Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr. will give the University's official welcome.

Students who were pre-assigned may complete registration in the Coliseum on Monday, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Pre-assigned students who do not complete registration on Monday may enter the Coliseum only at their scheduled time Tuesday or Wednesday.

Regular registration for all undergraduates is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 29-30. Graduate students and seniors scheduled to register Wednesday may obtain a special registration card from the Registrar's office permitting them to register at a designated hour on Tuesday.

Fraternity and sorority rush activities are scheduled for the week of Aug. 28-Sept. 1. No classes are scheduled for Labor Day, Sept. 4.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, the Ole

Miss Rebels will open the 1978 football season with a night game in Jackson against Memphis State University.

The fall semester will close on Thursday, Dec. 21.

Special teacher centers

aid in-service training

Mississippi Association of Educators (MAE) has received unofficial notification that two Mississippi school districts have received some funding for Teacher Centers.

A Teacher Center is an in-service training institution run for teachers by teachers. "The purpose of teachers planning the training," said John E. Ashley, MAE Executive Secretary, "is that teachers themselves can decide what training would help them do the most effective job in the classroom."

Columbia and Marion County jointly submitted a Teacher Center proposal and have been granted a $62,360 budget. Jackson Municipal Separate School District has been granted a $22,001 planning grant.

"These figures and centers were sent to us this week by the National Education Association of which MAE is the state affiliate," said Frank A. Yates, MAE Associate Executive Secretary.

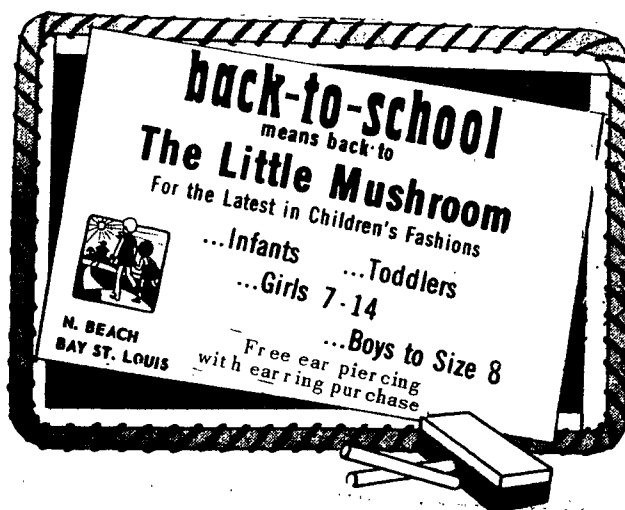

Mississippi school districts submitted thirteen proposals for Teacher Centers.

"We feel fortunate indeed that our state will receive federal funding for two such Centers," Mr. Ashley commented.

According to the NEA figures Alabama was granted funding for one Center and Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas were granted funding for two Centers each.

TEACHER LEARNS. Billy Blackwell, left, auto mechanics instructor at Pearl River Junior College's Hancock County Campus, participated in an automotive workshop held recently in Hattiesburg. The training workshop was sponsored by the Vocational and Technical Division of the State Department of Education.

Teacher tips tell 'how to' begin year

Teachers have spent the summer busily preparing for the next few days...the first days of school.

Mississippi Association of Educators, the state teachers association, wants these first days of school to be pleasant, productive and positive for your child.

Here are ten tips for parents for a good beginning for the school year:

- 1) Take an interest in your schools.
- 2) Talk to your child each day about school and listen to what he/she has to say about the day's experiences.
- 3) Provide your child with a well-lit, quiet study area.
- 4) Establish a daily study routine for your child.
- 5) Be sure your child gets a good night's rest and a nourishing breakfast.
- 6) Get to know your child's teacher and work cooperatively with the teacher.
- 7) Be aware of your school's policies and adhere to those rules.
- 8) Plan for your child to participate in school activities and attend these activities with your child.
- 9) Make sure your child has all the necessary working materials for a productive school year.

10) Drive carefully in school zones.

"We are interested in your child's welfare and his having a productive, happy experience in school," said John E. Ashley, MAE Executive Secretary. "If you have questions about school, don't hesitate to ask the teacher," he added.

Superintendent's open letter spells out shot law provisions

Dear Parents

As a result of a newly adopted Mississippi State Law, it is now unlawful for any child to attend any public or private school, including kindergarten, without having first been vaccinated against the following diseases: Diphtheria, Whooping Cough, Tetanus, Red Measles, Rubella, and Polio.

This new law is applicable only to children enrolled in grades ONE through EIGHT during the 1978-79 school year. In 1979-80, the law will apply to children in grades ONE through TEN. Effective in the fall term of 1980, the law will apply to all children, grades ONE through TWELVE.

These vaccinations may be obtained at the Hancock County Health Department or at the office of the family physician. In all cases, only certificates of vaccinations issued on forms specified by the Mississippi State Board of Health will be accepted by school officials for showing compliance with the immunization requirements.

Parents whose children have been previously vaccinated at the County Health Department or at a physician's office must obtain a Certificate of Vaccination for their children and present such at the time of enrollment for the 1978-79 school year.

Certificates of Vaccination may be turned in at the office of the principal of the school in which a child will be enrolled during the 1978-79 school year on Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. - 3 p.m., August 1-17, 1978.

If a child attempts to enroll at a school without having completed the required vaccinations, the local health officials (not school officials) may grant a period of time up to 90 days for such completion, if, in the opinion of the health officials, such delay will not cause undue risks to the child, the school or the community.

UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES shall a child be enrolled without having first had at least one dose of each specified vaccine.

Any child not in compliance at the end of ninety (90) days from the beginning of the fall term of school MUST be suspended until he is in compliance, unless the health officials shall attribute the delay to lack of supply of vaccine or some other factor making compliance impossible.

A certificate of exemption from vaccination for medical reasons may be offered on behalf of a child by a duly licensed physician and may be accepted by the local health officer, when, in his opinion, such exemption will not cause undue risk to the community.

A certificate of religious exemption may be offered on behalf of a child by an officer of a church or a recognized denomination. This certificate should certify that parents or guardians of the child are bona fide members of a recognized denomination whose religious teaching require reliance on prayer or spiritual means of healing.

Sincerely,
Terry Randolph

USM regional campuses tell fall schedules

Fall term schedules for the USM Gulf Coast Regional Campuses have been released and reveal an expansion in the number of course offerings.

All centers reflect additional course offerings in a variety of areas.

At the Jackson County Center, located on the Jackson County Campus of MGCJC, a new course has been added in special education, entitled, Teaching of Visually Handicapped. This course was added to meet a specific need of a school district but enrollment is open.

On the Gulf Park campus in Long Beach there are seven new courses. Lindy Callahan, athletic director for the Gulfport School System, will be teaching a course entitled Psychological and Social Aspects of Coaching.

Other first-time courses at Gulf Park and the instructors include: History of Biology, Dr. Byron Smith; Research and Term Paper Writing, Dr. James Davis; Film and TV in Libraries, Savan Tynes;

Health Education, Dr. J. R. Switzer; Fire Safety (Industrial Tech.), Joe Moore. Five courses in real estate will be offered as opposed to the customary three or four. "These additional courses courses than just another course. According to Dr. Theron Manly, director of the Education and Psychology Division of Gulf Park, "We are adding courses that will expand our degree completion capabilities. This is especially true with the new reading course that Dr. Miller will be teaching at Gulf Park," Manly said.

Schedules may be picked up at any USM Center on the Coast or they will be mailed by calling 864-6533 in Harrison County or 497-3636 in Jackson County.

Schedules and other information will be available when USM personnel are in Edgewater Mall on Aug. 5 from 10 a.m. til 6 p.m.

Fall term registration at USM is Aug. 28 at Jackson County and Keesler and Aug. 29 at Gulf Park.

Valley State expecting 'overflow' registration

An overflow of students - freshmen, upperclassmen, transfers, and graduates - are expected to arrive on the Mississippi Valley State University campus in Itta Bena for the fall term.

Freshmen and new students will report August 21 for orientation and advisement and will register August 22. Freshmen who have not taken the ACT (American College Test) may do so at the University on Tuesday, August 22.

Upperclassmen are to report for registration Wednesday and Thursday, August 23-24.

Registration for graduate and evening classes will be held Thursday evening from 6-8 p.m.

Student packs will be issued and registration held in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Center.

Students who have applied and have not received notification of their Basic Educational Opportunity Grant eligibility index are advised to report to the Financial Aid Office at the University on or before registration.

During the month of October, two major examinations are scheduled: The Senior Comprehensive slated for October 5-6 and mid-semester examinations October 19-20.

Homecoming, 1978 will be held Saturday, October 28, at 1:30 p.m. The Thanksgiving recess begins Tuesday, November 21 and ends Monday, November 27.

Pre-registration for the Spring Semester will begin in November 27, for on campus students. Fall Semester Examinations will be administered December 11-15 with dormitories closing for the Christmas vacation, December 18.

School nutrition education projects funded by USDA

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will make $1 million available for nutrition education projects to teach children the nutritional value of food and the relationship of nutrition to health.

Of the $1 million, $200,000 will be allocated for grants to states to conduct experimental and demonstration nutrition education projects.

Approximately $250,000 is earmarked for cooperative agreements and contracts with states, nonprofit institutions, universities and private organizations to develop evaluation methodologies and innovative approaches to nutrition education for children.

The remaining $550,000 to be announced in a subsequent Federal Register notice, will be used to develop media materials and techniques for communicating nutrition education.

The funds are authorized under Section 18 of the Child Nutrition Act and are for fiscal year 1978, which ends Sept. 30, 1978.

"We believe these projects can both increase children's knowledge of nutrition and encourage their participation in the school food programs," Ms. C.T. Foreman of USDA said.

The funds allocated for grants to state educational agencies are primarily aimed at developing and evaluating new ways to integrate nutrition education into school breakfast, school lunch, and other child nutrition programs.

To apply for the grants, state educational agencies should submit their applications to the Food and Nutrition Service's Contracting Officer by Aug. 14. Bids and proposals from nonprofit institutions, universities, and private organizations to perform research and development projects under contract will be solicited through USDA's Requests for Proposals at a later date. These contractual actions will be published intermittently in the Commerce Business Daily.

For more information on all of these projects, intermittently in the Commerce Business Daily.

For more information on all of these projects, interested persons should contact the Contracting Officer, Administrative Services Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. The telephone number is (202) 447-8736.

The notice announcing the availability of funds for nutrition education projects appeared in the July 5 Federal Register.

JUNIOR DEAN

State agencies let contracts on job program

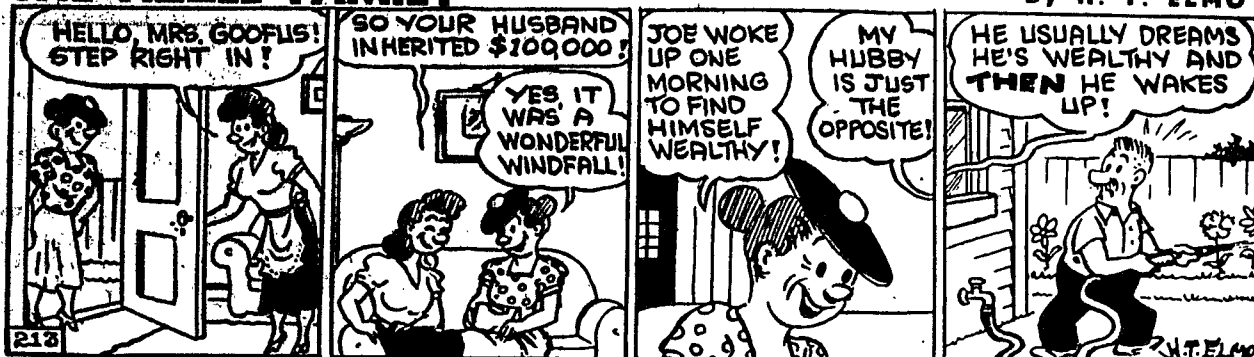

Representatives from Mississippi's nine planning and development districts (PDD's), Yazoo Community Action Agency and the State Employment Service met last week at the Governor's Office of Job Development and Training (GOJDT) for the awarding of contracts for the new Help Through Industry Retraining and Employment (HIRE II) Program.

The total amount of the contracts is $239,094. J. H. McMinn, Executive Director of GOJDT, stated, "We are extremely pleased that Mississippi was able to secure funds for the HIRE II Program. Our success can be attributed to the outstanding spirit of cooperation involving the Governor's Office, the PDD's, the Employment Service and the Yazoo Community Action Agency. Our state will benefit through this cooperative effort."

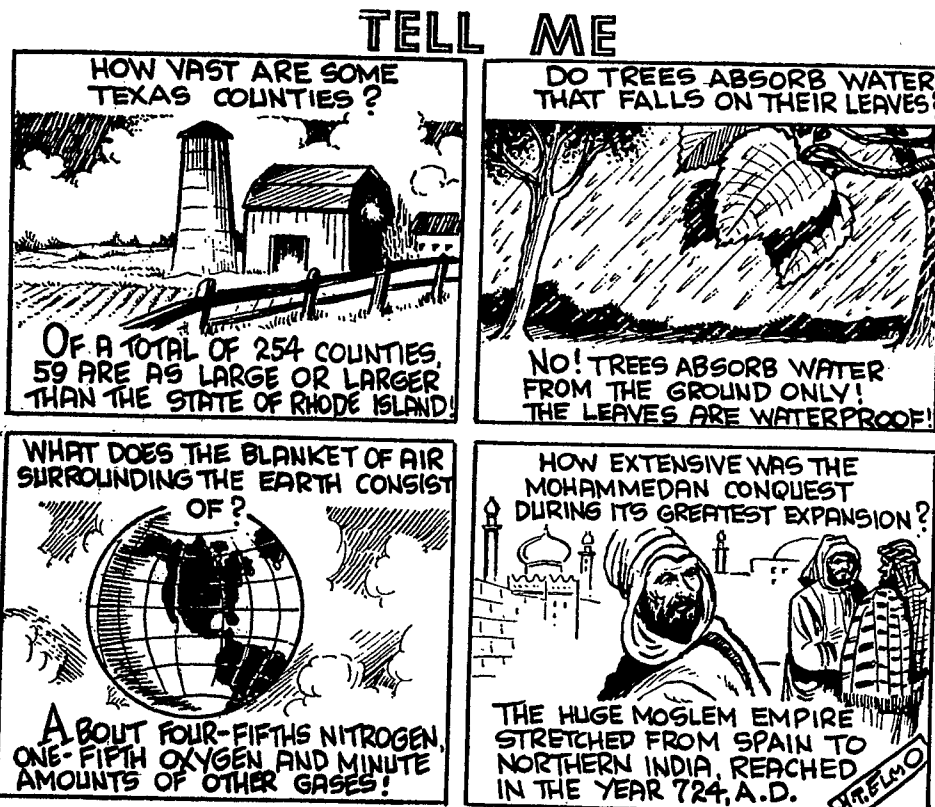

The HIRE II Program is designed to provide training opportunities in the private sector primarily for veterans and persons eligible for veterans preference. Additionally, other eligible individuals such as economically disadvantaged youth and the long-term unemployed may qualify for the program whose ultimate goal will be to increase private sector participation in the operation to employment and training programs.

Under HIRE II, the PDD's will work in cooperation with GOJDT and the Employment Service (ES) to assure successful implementation of the program. ES will be responsible for developing and executing contracts with eligible employers as well as certifying and referring eligible trainees.

Coast disaster plans studied by CD officials

Coast area disaster plans were the topic of a recent informal meeting of Civil Defense directors and disaster liaison personnel Friday morning in Gulfport. Harrison County Civil Defense Director Wade Guice said the purpose of the meeting was to review disaster preparedness plans prior to a potential disaster, with special emphasis on lines of communication between agencies and potential problems.

Held at the Emergency Operations Center in the county courthouse in Gulfport, the session paid particular attention to evacuation plans and coordination of decisions regarding evacuation.

Attending the meeting was Jim Maher, operations officer of the Mississippi Civil Defense Council, and from Bay-Waveland-Hancock County Civil Defense were Robert J. Boudin, director; Celestin Dumestre; and Dorothy Bielstein, secretary.

Public hearings in N. O. to eye foreign fisherman

A series of public meetings directed, foreign shark will be held in August to review proposed amendments to the final environmental impact statement and proposed for allocation to preliminary fishery management plan for Atlantic billfishes and sharks.

This plan regulates foreign fishing for billfishes and sharks within the 200-mile Fishery Conservation Zone of the Atlantic Ocean, Gulf of Mexico, and Caribbean Sea.

The plan presently prohibits the retention of billfishes and other non-target species taken incidental to directed fisheries for tunas and sharks, and identifies a surplus of 1,150 metric tons of sharks for allocation among foreign nations.

The amendment proposes to extend the preliminary management plan into the 1979 fishing season, and to institute procedures for minimizing the capture and subsequent mortality of non-target species (principally hammer and grouper) in
